

I've got stuff to post and things to do but with a whole extra day of weekend ahead of me I'm putting it all off.

This is one of the sunflowers in my sister's garden. It's taller than either Jane or I and has a huge scary looking spiky bud on it (is it still called a bud when it's bigger than your fist?). There are four or five of these flowers along the inside of the fence that faces the road. I cant wait to see them bloom.