

This is not Shelley. This is Rob.

Shelley is away this weekend, visiting her Grandparents to celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary, so I figured I should keep the blog rolling. Unfortunately I don't have a camera here so I can't take any new pictures. Abby just doesn't know what to do with herself and keeps checking at every sound to see if it's her mom coming back. I took her over to my parents' house last night to have some company and play with their dog and she enjoyed that. Now she's just curled up on my lap snoozing.

We're all looking forward to her getting back.